

REPORT THE SINKING OF U.S. VESSEL

AMERICAN DESTROYER JACOB JONES SENT TO BOTTOM WITH A LARGE PART OF HER CREW.

WAS ON PATROL DUTY

Sinking Occurred on Thursday Evening—Survivors Taken Off on Life Raft.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 8.—The American destroyer, Jacob Jones, was torpedoed and sunk in the war zone on Thursday with a loss of a large part of her crew.

Save Part of Crew.
Thirty-seven survivors were taken on one of the life rafts. The names of the survivors have been received here. They are: Lieutenant John K. Richard, Ensign Nelson N. Gates, Assistant Surgeon L. L. Adamkiewicz, Charles E. Pierce, fireman; Timothy C. Twomey, seaman; John C. Johnson, seaman; Henry A. Stutzke, chief machinist's mate; Edward J. Brady, fireman, second class; John J. Mulvaney, seaman; and Miran Flood, seaman.

On Patrol Duty.

The sinking occurred December 6, at 8 p. m., while the ship was on patrol duty. She was commanded by Lieutenant Commander David Worth Bagley, brother of Mrs. Joseph D. Bagley, wife of the secretary of the navy. Commander Bagley, a brother, was the first American officer killed in the Spanish-American war.

The Jacob Jones was the ship which saved 305 persons from the Orama, the A. P. and O. liner converted into an auxiliary cruiser. The Orama, the A. P. and O. liner converted into an auxiliary cruiser, was torpedoed by a submarine while acting as a part of a convoy of merchant vessels under escort of American destroyers. The Jacob Jones was one of the destroyers which were detailed to remain by the Orama after the submarine had been attacked and put out of action.

Crew Abandoned Ship.
When the Orama began to settle it had grown dark and her crew abandoned her, whereupon the Jacob Jones picked up, in the darkness, the 173 persons standing by rescued the remainder. The Jacob Jones in peace time carried a crew of five officers, five petty officers, and eighty-seven men. She was one of the newest and largest American destroyers with a displacement of 1,150 tons and length of 310 feet over all. She was completed in 1914 at the navy yard at Camden, N. J. She burned oil, and had a speed of 29.57 knots an hour.

Not on Survivors' List.

Lieutenant Commander David Worth Bagley, brother of Mrs. Joseph D. Bagley, and whose brother was the first American officer to give his life in the Spanish-American war, did not appear in the list of survivors. Inas much as Admiral Sims mentioned other officers and did not name Bagley, it is feared he went down with his ship. The complement of five officers and five petty officers and eighty-seven men in peace time was increased to a hundred or more. From the first report it would appear the loss of life would be upwards from sixty. The attack, which was at eight o'clock at night, was delivered by torpedoes in the rolling icy waters of the north Atlantic winter waters.

Submarine Probably Had Plenty of Opportunity to Pick Her Time for the Attack.
The submarine probably came up as the destroyer was picking her course and had a good opportunity to attack. No details were contained in today's detailed report, but it has been the case heretofore that when a submarine got a hit on a destroyer it was due to the submarine's superior skill on the part of the submarine.

Indicates Fair Hit.
The large loss of life would indicate that with its deadly charge of high explosive made a fair hit plump on the destroyer's thin hull and that the submarine hunter was blown down roughly in two. This is evidenced by the fact that nothing is said of survivors getting off in life boats. Those saved got off in rafts, which probably floated off the sinking ship as she plunged down in the darkness.

AUSTRIANS LISTED AS ALIEN ENEMIES

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 8.—The roundup of Austro-Hungarian enemies began today throughout the United States with agents of the department of justice being assisted by local authorities. With the declaration of war more than a million subjects of Austria-Hungary were added to the list of alien enemies. Government agents today rounded up Austrians who have long been suspected of conspiring to hamper the government's plan. They will be interned if they fail to disprove the suspicion. They were barred today from the one hundred yard zone.

$200,000 FIRE OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN IN CHICAGO TODAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Dec. 8.—A warehouse recently leased by the government for the medical division of the army was destroyed by fire of mysterious origin today. Chemicals among the stores caused a number of small explosions. The flames burned so fiercely that only the tottering wall of the five story structure was standing when the fire arrived. The building stood at South Dearborn avenue and West 40th street. Major W. F. Shields and thirty-five employees fled from the flames. Major Shields said he had an announcement to make on suspicions as to what incendiary started the fire. Two men acting suspiciously near the ruins were arrested by federal officers. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

FRENCH MAY MARVEL AT WEALTHY TROOPS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Washington, Dec. 8.—The American soldier is generally known in foreign lands by the title of "doughboy." With this reputation already before him, what the natives of other lands will think when certain American outfits arrive in their midst is now a matter of considerable concern to those particular outfits.

The organizations referred to are a product of the war. They are known as "rich men's regiments," and are worthy of the name.

These units have already made a reputation for themselves, not as spendthrifts, but for the big incomes of the men.

For instance a certain engineer regiment at Camp Meade is made up principally of graduates of colleges and technical institutions. The pay of the enlisted men gave up to $100 a month, and the officers of the regiment are paid from $5,000 a year upward to serve for $30 per month.

Another regiment of engineers at a camp near here is composed of rich business men and their sons. The men are paid from $5,000 a year upward to serve for $30 per month.

In a big southern training camp is, or was, a squadron of crack National Guard cavalry, whose members were big business men and rich. The men were paid from $5,000 a year upward to serve for $30 per month.

These men are not reckless spenders, but are every inch gentlemen and intend to prove it on the other side.

JAPANESE TO TRAIN THE CHINESE ARMIES

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Tokyo, Dec. 8.—Following closely the announcement that China will send troops to the western front in Europe, the Japanese government has announced that Japan will supply arms and ammunition to China along with officers to completely reorganize and reform the fighting force of the Oriental republic.

It is to furnish the raw material which will be turned into ordnance in the empire's factories and government arsenals. The new form of a loan from Japan to China, and the Peking government has already placed an order with the Taihei company of Japan for supplies for a cost of $15,000,000. The Chinese government has announced that it will send three divisions of troops to Europe, and the initial order from Japan is expected to be the first of many.

The first supply will consist of 120 field guns, 60 mountain guns, 20,000 rifles and a number of machine guns.

British Hold Cambrai Gains

Attack after attack by the Germans against the British positions in the vicinity of Cambrai have been repulsed by General Haig during the past few days. One of the attacks smashed by the British was at Havincourt (1). It was at Gouzeaucourt (2) that American engineers Sunday came under fire of the Germans. They were saved when the British fired over their heads at the Germans.

DEVASTATED AREA TAKEN BY GERMANS

HUNS CONTINUE WORK OF RE-OCCUPYING AREA GAINED WHEN GENERAL BYNG WITHDREW HIS FORCES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

British Headquarters in France, Friday, Dec. 8.—The Germans today continued the work of re-occupying the devastated area bequeathed to them by the British when General Byng made his withdrawal from the Cambrai plain. It was an easy task that faced the enemy. The Bourlon wood still was reeking with poison gas, several towns were a waste of ruins and the low lying ground on which the Germans apparently had planned to dig their new trenches was overlooked by the British position.

Into this desert the big guns were hurled from the machine gunners were whipping a constant stream of bullets into the ranks of the enemy sent forward to reconnoiter. The British were sitting comfortably in their new homes, their hands making the ground virtually completed before they started to retire at midnight Tuesday. Part of their work was done for them by the Germans in the famous Hindenburg trenches. The wonderful German dugouts and network of front line and communication trenches were all at the disposal of the Tommies.

The British held Bourlon wood so gallantly were compelled to wear gas masks most of the time they were in the forest. The ground was swampy in many places and the wood was covered with underbrush. These two features resulted in gas hanging about the wood in clouds all the time. In some places it was so thick that the men were unable to see or to breathe. It was also difficult to dig in as every time a spadeful of earth was turned the soil gave out more gas.

Yet it is believed the British could have maintained the wood had it been necessary and advisable. It is impossible to estimate the number of German troops employed in the operation along the new battle line since General Byng began his push on Nov. 20 but it is probably not far out of the way to say that the enemy had something like 250,000 men. Not all were actually engaged in fighting, as the British withdrawal leaves the British in full possession of the Hindenburg trenches between the Nord canal and Villers-Polouch.

2,000 Germans Killed.
Something like 2,000 Germans were killed at one place north of Flequeres yesterday. These had pushed forward and were exerting pressure against the British near Orval wood. The British fell back slightly and the Germans moved forward to a position in the wood where they assembled in large numbers. Yesterday afternoon the German attacked again about LaVaqueur but here the British still hold the high ground near here and the Germans continue infantry assault in an attempt to oust the defenders.

Will Watch Actions of Disloyal People

Mayor Fathers has Received Reports That Some People Pride Themselves on Not Giving Money to Aid the Government.

Although it is thought to be an established fact that every man, woman and child in this city is loyal to the government, at this time during the great war and willing to do their little bit by giving all the aid possible in the form of money, there are a few people who are called slackers and even more than that they are called traitors.

This was the substance of the report which Mayor James A. Fathers has received relative to a few people who have been solicited to give aid to the various funds. The women who have harassed the city for the Liberty Loan, Y. M. C. A. fund, and other similar organizations report that in several cases people are refused to give even though they are apparently in circumstances of a nature which would enable them to do so.

A special example was brought before the Mayor last week in the case of a woman who was refused to give money to one of the funds. She was refused to give money to one of the funds. She was refused to give money to one of the funds.

HUN AIRMEN ENGAGE WITH ALLIED AVIATORS ON SWISS TERRITORY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 8.—The first aerial battle between allies and German airmen over Swiss territory occurred Sunday and Monday. It appears the Germans, hard pressed by their opponents, intentionally entered Switzerland. The encounter lasted twenty minutes. Seven bombs were dropped on Swiss territory, but no damage resulted. Eventually the airmen sped toward Alsace, till fighting, while Swiss soldiers bombarded both parties with shells from anti-aircraft guns.

SEVEN DROWN WHEN GALE HITS DREDGE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Dec. 8.—Seven persons were drowned when the sand sucking dredge, "Desmond," with a crew of thirteen, sank in a storm on Lake Michigan today off the mouth of the Calumet river. Members of the crew, owned by the Cream City Sand company of Milwaukee, were sand laden. One man, John J. St. Joseph, Mich., was blown out of his course by a gale, and attempted to make the Calumet harbor. The cargo shifted, however, with safety in sight, and the craft sank in five minutes. Rescuers were sent to the scene, but the crew was lost. The dead are: Captain Emil Thorson, Master Jack Stahl, chief engineer; Fred Clark, fireman; George Olson, wharfman; and three deck hands making their first trip. Of the rescued, Gus Anderson may die of exposure in the water and bitter cold. He kept himself afloat for an hour until the boat reached him and was taken to the hospital. The others suffered, but probably will recover.

NEW DUTIES THE RESULT OF ACTION

GATHERING IN OF AUSTRO-HUNGARIAN SUSPECTS HAS BEEN STARTED.

LINES STRAIGHTENED

Italians Have Been Forced Back by the Advancing Hosts—Peace on Russian Front.

Austrian declaration of war on Austria-Hungary comes at a moment when the Italian northern front between the Oseago and Brenta is being hardpressed by an Austro-German army under Field Marshal Conrad von Hotzendorff. The adoption of the declaration by congress with only one dissenting vote and its signing by President Wilson late yesterday probably will be a great help to the people and troops of Italy.

Enemy Gains Line.
In four days the invading Austro-Germans have forced the Italians back an average of three miles on a ten mile front but the advance was gained at a great cost in casualties as the Italians fought desperately every step of the way and at some points preferred to die rather than surrender or retreat. In addition to losing Monte Siesmol three miles east of Oseago the Italians according to Berlin, have given up 4,000 additional prisoners.

Line Not Broken.
The Italian defense line has not been broken and there is yet ten miles of mountain country to fight through before the foot of the Alps and the invaders near the Brenta and the latest gains have been made only around Oseago.

In Flanders.
There is a lull in the fighting around Cambrai and the Germans have made no attack in force against the British position. North of LaVaqueur the British troops captured German trenches and improved the line in this neighborhood.

Capture Hebron.
Hebron, southwest of Jerusalem, is captured by British forces. It is reported all American citizens in Jerusalem and probably all Jews have been removed from the city. It is not known whether the British are evacuating all the civilian population or only part.

On Russian Front.
Guns were silent and soldiers are idle along the entire length of the eastern front from the Baltic to the Black Sea. The Rumanians under the forced circumstances have joined the Russian troops in the anti-German negotiations with the central powers. The Russian government announces the negotiations have been halted for seven days to the give the allied country opportunity to extend their activity toward the negotiation.

Are at Vladivostok.
It is reported that 1500 Bolshevik troops have arrived at Vladivostok, whether they came from Petrograd or units from Siberian towns is not disclosed. Vladivostok holds much strategic value and is a key to the shipping lanes of the United States, Japan and other countries.

Siberian Government.
The temporary independent government in Siberia has chosen a former Premier Kerensky as minister of justice. General Korniloff is reported to have joined General Kaledine, the Cossack leader, around whom most of the anti-Bolshevik provisional government have gathered.

SMUGGLERS CLOSELY WATCHED BY SWISS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Basel, Dec. 8.—Though the Swiss border authorities have increasingly strengthened their vigilance on all frontiers so as to put a stop to the petty smuggling that has been going on, principally into Germany, it has been impossible to entirely suppress it. A recent arrest for smuggling, where by a dishonest official was caught in the act, shows the amusing features that accompany the work of ferreting out the smugglers. For this reason the loud and violent speeches that led to the arrest of the culprit.

Cantonal Constable May, charged with watching the smugglers, was today to appear on his bicycle for inspection. In his pockets was a quantity of German money, "earned" according to his admission by similar previous operations.

DRYS WILL MAKE BIG DRIVE ON CONGRESS

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.]

Washington, Dec. 8.—Reports of its most successful year and plans for its biggest effort—the drive for national prohibition at the present session of congress—are before the convention of the National Anti-Saloon league, which meets here Monday.

In its three days sessions, announcements are expected of a number of congressmen pledged to support the dry amendment when it comes before the house. The league has made many new league leaders say, within a very few weeks.

Success of the resolution which will submit the question of national prohibition to the states is assured, according to these officials, by an overwhelming vote. Only the house remains to be won, the senate having approved the measure last year.

Prominent among the nationally known men who will address the 2,000 delegates are Senators Sheppard, Tex., and Borah, Ida.; and Representatives Hiram Bingham, Conn.; Fessenden, N. H.; and William Jennings Bryan.

There will be jubilation over the capture of these states since the last convention, in July, 1916. Michigan, Indiana and New Jersey, North Dakota, Nebraska and New Mexico. The District of Columbia also was voted dry by congress.

Reverses were met in Iowa, where the state constitution, which provided for a constitutional amendment, although the dry statute remains in effect; and in Ohio, by so close a vote that a contest is expected.

Winning of Ohio and one or two more eastern industrial states is regarded as essential to prohibition strategy. Even if congress submits the dry resolution, it will be nullified unless the amendment is such shape that it must be approved by three-fourths of all the states within six years.

RELIEF FOR PEOPLE NOW IN HALIFAX

TRAIN ARRIVES FROM BOSTON TO AID DESTITUTE CITIZENS ACCEPT TOTAL NUMBER OF DEATHS AT 1500.

VERY FEW IDENTIFIED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Halifax, Dec. 8.—The Massachusetts relief train that left Boston Thursday night, arrived here today. There is absolutely no way of estimating the number of dead as the result of the explosion on Thursday. 1,600 dead is the generally accepted figure by the authorities. In one morgue there are 300 bodies.

Many View Bodies.
The latter were viewed by a multitude today but only a few were identified as there are probably 200 other bodies on view awaiting identification. In the first place, the number of bodies is impossible. The citizens' committee issued a statement saying that between 3000 and 4000 dwellings occupied by poorer classes had been destroyed, affecting about 5,000 persons.

Investigations show almost 20,000 persons are destitute. Show to the depth of two feet fell over this district. It is feared that several Canadian soldiers, being assisted by American blue jackets. The mayor issued an order suspending the Sabbath holiday and directing all stores remaining open to be kept open and all labor continued.

Search Delayed.
Search of the ruins is delayed by heavy snow though many injured had been removed to nearby towns before the storm set in.

4,000 Coffins Are Sent.
Amherst, Dec. 8.—An estimate of 4,000 persons dead in the Halifax disaster is cited in a dispatch from a telegram received from the stricken city today by an undertaking firm here. The message asks that 4,000 coffins be sent to Halifax at earliest opportunity.

Halifax, Dec. 8.—A blinding north country snow storm, accompanied by a gale that at times attained a velocity of more than forty miles an hour, has held the city of desolation and death while snow and plows were used to grapple for the past twenty-four hours adding new terrors to the all-stricken survivors of Thursday's disaster and greatly impeding the progress of relief trains from the United States and Dominion cities with their needed supplies. The Massachusetts relief train was stalled in a great snowdrift near Amherst last night.

With every building in Halifax and Dartmouth more or less damaged by the explosion and fire, men, women and children huddled together as best they could and plows were used to grapple for the past twenty-four hours adding new terrors to the all-stricken survivors of Thursday's disaster and greatly impeding the progress of relief trains from the United States and Dominion cities with their needed supplies. The Massachusetts relief train was stalled in a great snowdrift near Amherst last night.

There were scarcely blankets enough to cover the poor dead in the many cases unable to obtain food. Fires were out of the question and the only light obtainable was from oil lamps or candles.

Twenty Thousand Destitute.
The citizen finance committee, headed by Justice Harris, estimates there are twenty thousand destitute people in the devastated area, the majority of whom are children. Nearly four thousand dwelling houses were destroyed. The committee declares that the actual losses and estimated cost of temporary maintenance will approximate thirty million dollars. The most serious is the food situation. There is enough food in the city for immediate need, but unless communication is opened soon, the city faces probable famine.

Need Supplies.
Milk is almost unobtainable, and fears are expressed for the lives of babies in the hospital. No effort is being made to complete a list of the dead, but hundreds of soldiers, sailors, American Jackies and volunteers are going out to search for bodies. Police and officials still estimate the dead at two thousand, and injured at three thousand or more.

MEATLESS DAY WILL BE OBSERVED XMAS

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—Old Job Turkey, who has been informing his family that Christmas and New Years this year would be no cause for worry because they fall on meatless day, has another guess coming. Just as Mr. Turkey had complacently decided to send Herbert Hoover a card of thanks along comes that official with a telegram to the State Food Administrator Magnus Swenson which takes all the joy out of turkey life. Mr. Hoover says: "Christmas and New Years both fall on meatless Tuesday. We are taking the position that our recognition of meatless should be fully complied with. Wisconsin, however, includes poultry in its definition of meatless. We suggest that the people of Wisconsin be allowed to use poultry, including turkey, for their Christmas and New Years dinners." If this is a sad bow for Mr. Turkey it likewise is one for those citizens who were planning on breaking training entirely on these holidays. All good citizens will note that meatless Tuesday, December 25 and January 1, are otherwise strictly observed.

SAVINGS SYSTEM IN SCHOOLS A SUCCESS

Superintendent Faust is Highly Pleased With Results of First Six Weeks' Working of the Plan in City Schools. After a six weeks' trial of the school savings bank plan in the graded schools of the city, figures compiled this morning by Superintendent Faust show that the movement is a great success. The report shows that 308 pupils have opened savings accounts, the total amount so far accumulated by them being $209.68. Mr. Faust is elated over the results and predicts great things for the future. The plan was originally suggested by Mrs. Sara Lobisa, Oberholzer of Philadelphia, and is being used by the graded schools of a majority of the cities of the country. The object of it is to encourage the saving habit among children at an early age, teaching them to be thrifty in everything. Any pupil wishing to open an account is provided with a folder by his teacher. This folder is a miniature bank book. Friday of each week deposits are collected by the different teachers and turned over to the principals of the schools who will deposit them in the banks of the city. When any pupil has an amount over one dollar to his credit, the banks will pay interest at the rate of three percent. The standings of the various schools of the city at the end of the first six weeks are as follows: Washington, $29.21; Webster, $28.34; Grant, $27.18; Jefferson, $27.06; Adams, $25.94; Douglas, $24.01; Garfield, $23.70; Jackson, $23.18; Lincoln, $22.75. The Adams school is credited with having the largest number of depositors, with 50, followed by the Jefferson, with 45, and the Washington, with 43. LOCAL YOUNG MAN NOW IN QUARTERMASTER'S CORPS. Garnett McVicar, who has been spending the past two days with his father, Wm. McVicar, returned late this afternoon to Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio. He is now holding a position in the quartermaster's corps as a truck driver. When the Northwestern ambulance company disbanded a few weeks ago, the other two Janesville boys at this camp, Louis Graves and Tracy Allen, were discharged, but have not as yet been accepted. They expect to be notified within a few days.

MANY ENVELOPES ARE NEEDED FOR QUESTIONNAIRES

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—A glimpse of the magnitude of war in general was afforded at the state capitol Friday when the envelopes to be used in handling the questionnaires for registrants in the state arrived, ready for distribution to the local boards under Major E. A. Fitzgerald. There were one half million of the envelopes. They came in two large boxes each weighing well over 450 pounds. The total weight of the shipment was 11,075 pounds. The magnitude of the task of postal clerks throughout the state in handling this matter can be imagined. The letters of course go prepaid by the government.

LAWRENCE COLLEGE FIVE TO OPEN SEASON DEC. 14

Appleton, Wis., Dec. 8.—The basketball season for Lawrence college will be opened here Friday evening, Dec. 8, with a game with Marquette university of Milwaukee. Only two veterans are back this year to form a nucleus—Lane, who played a strong game at guard last year and Bushey, whose work at forward earned one of the surprises of the basketball season last year.

PLAIN SERVICE FLAG FOR STATE CAPITOL

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—One of the largest service flags in Wisconsin is soon to grace the capitol dome. It was unveiled Friday by Superintendent of Public Property Blumenfeld. The flag will measure 15 by 25 feet and is to be suspended above the rotunda inside the building. There will be forty stars on it arranged in a circle. The early succeeding stars will be arranged in an inner circle. Subsequent additions will be grouped outside of the first circle.

WAUPACA SCHOOL STUDENTS TAKE A CANDY PLEDGE

Waupaca, Wis., Dec. 8.—No candy four days in each week is the pledge taken by high school, sixth, seventh and eighth grade students in the Waupaca schools Monday, Tuesday and Friday being the only "sweety" days left on the calendar. Practically every student voluntarily signed this pledge at a meeting of the Red Cross branch at the high school last week. It is expected that there will be a very considerable saving of sugar during the period of the war.

May Wed: Arthur Hasselke and Miss Lulu Hoey, both of Beloit, have secured a marriage license from the county clerk.

CHICAGO MARKETS. Chicago, Dec. 8.—Receipts of hogs yesterday at 31,000 were 28,000 smaller than a year ago and less than half as large as two years ago, when almost 68,000 arrived. Withholding the comparatively small supply, prices declined 5¢@10¢. Best heavy swine sold to packers as high as $17.40, while Armour's hogs of 205-lb. mix cost $18.30. Owing to a poorer outlet on feeding account pigs declined 25¢@50¢ yesterday, settling largely at $15.25@16. Estimates placed next Monday's probable hog receipts at 45,000. Edward Morris marked 45,000. Fred Burroughs 48,000, G. F. Swift 51,000, J. M. Waters 55,000, H. B. Henry 55,000, Felix Gehman 60,000 and Henry Keiser 65,000. Average price of hogs at Chicago was $17.08, against $17.18 Thursday, $17.25 a week ago, $9.58 a year ago and $6.32 ten years ago. Cattle Trade Weak. Cattle trade yesterday was dull and prices weak to a little lower. Calves were steady to strong and odd fancy vealers reached $15. Best steers on sale made $12.50. Bulls were weak. Stockers and feeders found a small outlet. Quotations: Choice to fancy steers $13.50@16.00. Poor to good steers 8.50@13.25. Yearlings, fair to fancy 11.50@14.75. Fat cows and heifers 6.50@11.75. Canning cows and cullers 6.25@6.40. Native bulls and steers 45.00@55.00. Feeding cattle, 600@1,000 lbs. 5.55@11.10. Poor to fancy veal calves 9.75@15.00. Western range steers 7.25@13.25. Hog Prices Decline. Hogs sold 5¢@10¢ lower and the best went at $17.40. The market closed weak on practically all grades. Pigs were weak to 25¢ lower and best landed at $16. Demand was not very urgent despite the good quality of the bulk. Quotations: Bulk of sales $16.80@17.35. Heavy butchers and ship-ping 17.20@17.40. Light butchers, 190@230 lbs. 17.15@17.40. Light bacon, 145@190 lbs. 16.50@17.25. Heavy packing, 280@400 lbs. 16.90@17.20. Mixed packing, 200@250 lbs. 16.75@17.05. Rough, heavy packing 18.70@18.35. Poor to best pigs, 60@135 lbs. 13.25@16.00. Stags, 8 lbs. dockage per head 17.40@17.55. Sheep Change Little. There was not much change in sheep and lamb prices on the average yesterday. Demand was not very urgent despite the light run. Ewes reached $11.50 and lambs topped at $18.75 in the absence of feed buyers. Quotations: Lambs, common to fancy $14.50@16.75. Lambs, poor to good culls 12.50@14.00.

Yearlings, poor to best 12.25@14.25. Wethers, poor to best 12.00@13.00. Ewes, inferior to choice 6.50@11.60. Bucks, common to choice 7.25@9.00. Feeding lambs, all grades 16.00@17.25. UTTERS CORNERS. Edgerton News

Edgerton, Dec. 7.—The Corn and Potato contest and meeting closed last evening after a very successful session. The address given by A. J. Glover, yesterday afternoon, on "What to feed this winter," was a most instructive one. Mr. Glover is associate manager of Hoag's Dairyman. Mr. P. B. Dobson of Lancaster, who is a prominent hog raiser of that section, gave his views on the hog industry. Last evening L. A. Markham, county agricultural agent, gave a most interesting talk on "The Opportunities Open to the Farmers." He was followed by R. A. Moore, of the University of Wisconsin, who discussed the corn situation. It was through the combined efforts of the High School and the Edgerton Credit Association, that this meeting was made possible, and the interest shown will warrant another meeting of this character next year.

The annual high school basketball tournament will begin Monday. Each class will have a team in the tournament, and from the several teams represented at the tournament, the team to represent the high school will be selected. In this manner, the best that the school has will be selected for the team. Monday, the 7th grade plays

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

There's a bit of cheerful advice to the Sammlers that has been passed from mouth to mouth, and it's so very optimistic that we quote it here.

"Don't worry; there's nothing to worry about."

"You have two alternatives; either you are mobilized or you are not. If not, you have nothing to worry about. If you are mobilized, you have two alternatives; you are in camp or at the front. If you are in camp, you have nothing to worry about. If you are at the front, you have two alternatives; either you are on the fighting line or in reserve. If in reserve, you have nothing to worry about. If you are on the fighting line, you have two alternatives; either you fight or you don't. If you don't, you have nothing to worry about. If you do, you have two alternatives; either you get hurt or you don't. If you don't, you have nothing to worry about. If you are hurt, you have two alternatives; either you are slightly hurt or badly. If slightly, you have nothing to worry about. If badly, you have two alternatives; either you recover or you don't. If you recover, you have nothing to worry about. If you don't, and have followed this advice closely, through, you have done with worry forever."

This ray of optimism is going the rounds of the press of the country at a time when it is helpful to cultivate the bright side of a dark situation, for there is a bright side, as will be noticed in every alternative mentioned.

The thought of the nation, as well as the heart of the nation, is with our boys who are bravely going to the front. War has become an actuality, so intensely real that we no longer doubt that we are a part of it.

We are no longer spectators, and while the battlefields are just as far away, they seem nearer, because the wide stretch of water has been bridged by our boys on the firing line. The casualty lists, which have meant but little to us, will now be read with interest in every American home.

After three years of hard experience, the art of conserving human life has been reduced to a science, by our allies. Statistics for the past year show that fatalities at the front are only five per cent, and hospital records indicate that ninety-eight per cent of the wounded recover.

The German army, in France, has been on the defensive for a long time, and will continue to be on the defensive until driven across the Rhine. Desperate efforts to hold the territory occupied have resulted in the slaughter of life which has no parallel in history.

The shelling of trenches has been done by the big guns at the rear of the allied armies and hand-to-hand encounters are of rare occurrence. A British soldier who had been at the front for two years, said that he had yet to see the first enemy, which indicates that modern warfare is at long range.

One of the bridges on the battle line in Italy was destroyed, the other day, by British artillery, fourteen thousand yards away. That is equivalent to shelling the Milwaukee street bridge by cannon located at Milton.

The uselessness of modern warfare is so novel that we do not comprehend them. They mean that it takes a ton of lead to kill a man and they lead us to hope that the most of our boys will return to us safe and sound.

There is only one way to look at this war today, and that is that we are in it to stay until victory is won. If there is any doubt about what victory means, read the President's message—a message so broad and comprehensive, and so charitable in spirit, that it will inspire the world with hope and courage. Here are two or three paragraphs:

"We shall regard the war as won only when the German people say to us, through properly accredited representatives, that they are ready to agree on a settlement based upon justice and the reparation of wrongs their rulers have done. They have done wrong to Belgium which must be repaired."

"The very deep wrongs committed in this war will have to be righted, but not by the commission of similar wrongs against Germany and her allies, and the settlement of the struggle will perforce be devoid of the iniquities perpetrated by the congress of Vienna, a century ago."

"Autocracy must first be shown the utter futility of its claims to power and leadership in the modern world, whereupon it will be possible for the victors unselfishly to base peace on generosity and justice," an "unprecedented act."

"Nations are entitled 'not only to free pathways upon the sea, but also to assured and unobstructed access to those pathways,' and this applies not only to weak but to strong nations, friends and enemies, Austria as well as Serbia and Poland."

The President is speaking for a nation one hundred million strong, which believes in justice and humanity, and he expresses the sentiments and determination of this great constituency. We were so slow in entering the war that Germany treated us as a joke and many of her deluded subjects have yet to learn that we are at the front.

But we are there to stay with all the men and all the money necessary to aid in winning this most righteous war, as Germany will soon discover to her discomfort. We have never acquired a reputation as a fighting nation, but we long enjoyed a reputation for other things which are more important.

It ought to inspire every American soldier boy with a spirit of optimism when he realizes that this great nation is behind him, able and willing to hold up his hands. The boy in khaki today is the hero of the nation. He fills the eye of every silly girl with admiration, and every woman wants to be a mother to him, while men grasp him by the hand with a hearty God bless you.

Here is a bit of advice to mothers, written by Betty Tanager of the "Vigilantes," on "When to hide your heart's sorrow." It is worth adopting and will contribute to the boys' contentment and happiness.

"When you tell your boy goodbye as he entrains for cantonments, don't break his heart with your grief."

"The other day a party of khaki-clad soldiers boarded a train on their way back to business after a furlough at home.

"Their mothers, their sisters and their sweethearts accompanied them to the train. And what did those women do? They wept bitterly and convulsively, they clung to their boys' necks, and as the train pulled out, one gray-haired woman fainted."

"That woman's son sat down by me. He pulled his service hat over young brows tortured by his mother's sorrow."

"'I'm ready to go,' said he. 'I'm not dodging my duty to my country and I'm willing to go over there and fight it out with those Huns. But my mother's heart is breaking and it's mighty hard to bear.'"

"Is that what you want your boy to say as he leaves you to do his duty? Is the last sight of you to be a misery to him and a pain? Or is it to be an inspiration, something wonderful and full of hope, something which he will recall with a thrill of pride when he thinks—and he will think every day—of his mother—and his loved ones?"

"Am I asking too much? You know in your hearts that I'm not. Boys have gone out into the world day by day since the world began. Their mothers grieved to lose them, but what a grief to have them so much less than men that they would not go, that they would today hide in the home nest when their duty and their country calls them!"

"When there was peace in the world, our boys—I have one, fighting age—our boys went out into the world, out of their homes to fight and to make their own place. They kissed us goodbye and their eyes were set, not on our faces but on their own future."

"And now, with the world in mourning, with mothers 'over there' wearing their sorrows like a crown, remembering with pride that they had a son to give that the world might live, what are we mothers over here thinking of that we tear the courage and the young smile out of our boys' eyes when they go out to fight for the flag?"

"Shall they be less men than the English boys and the French? Than Russian lads or Scottish, than Irish soldiers, or the high hearted Italians who hold the ramparts of the Alps?"

This is plain talk to mothers from a mother, but it rings true. We expect our boys to leave home, when they arrive at man's estate, and strike out for themselves, and we bid them "good-bye" and wish them Godspeed.

They are leaving us today in response to the call of duty. The most sacred call that was ever issued, because the safety of the nation and the welfare of humanity is at stake. We would not have them ignore this call if they would, and so we send them away with a "God bless and keep you."

The life that counts is a life of sacrifice. The current of our national life has been running so smooth, for the last half century, that we were absorbing its blessings as a matter of course, and with but little sense of appreciation.

The war cloud, which has settled over us like a black pall, has brought us up at a short turn, and for the first time in the history of most of us, we are asked to make some sacrifices for the country, which has done so much for us.

When our boys step out to the front and offer their services and lives, if need be, they are making the supreme sacrifice. We, who stay at home, can not do less than to give them most cheerful and loyal support.

They are entitled to all the inspiration that we can give them. Let us cheer their hearts with hope and courage, while we pray for their safe return.

THE RIGHT MOVE.

It will be noticed in another column that the Rock County Council of Defense is about to adopt a plan for raising money for war purposes, which will give everybody a chance to contribute according to their ability.

The plan under advisement is known as the Michigan plan, and is now in successful operation in at least one county in that state. It provides for an assessment of one and one-half mills on the dollar of all taxable property, and a small assessment on wages and salaries, on people who have no assessable property.

It is estimated that this plan will create a fund of about one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, without being burdensome to anybody, and would save the constant solicitation of money for all sorts of things made necessary by the war.

These include the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the K. C., the Red Cross and anything else which President Wilson or the National War Board may endorse.

That the people of Rock county will respond cheerfully is not a matter of doubt. We are beginning to realize that we are at war, and we will realize it more and more as time advances. The money to carry on the war will be secured by the government in the physical comfort and moral welfare of our boys in camp, and at the front must come from us as individuals. It is a sacred obligation which no man or woman can afford to ignore.

The plan for raising funds of this kind will be fully explained by the Gazette as soon as it is worked out and adopted. It contemplates a fair

SIDE LIGHTS on the
CIRCUS BUSINESSBy D. W. WATT
Former Manager Burr Robbins and Later Treasurer of Adam Forepaugh Circuses.

On Wednesday morning last I took an early train for Chicago to attend a homecoming which was to be held in the club rooms of the Showmen's League of America, which are located on the fifth floor of the building located at the corner of Dearborn and Monroe streets. Soon after my arrival I met an old friend, Ed Cummings, proprietor of the Saratoga hotel. The train had just arrived and he had just come over to the club rooms and register before the crowd commences to come, for they want everyone to register, and we will have to name our home town and also the season of 1917, and if we don't register now we may have to wait a long time, for the boys are coming from almost every state in the union. When we arrived at the club rooms, even at that time in the morning there were many waiting to register. A few minutes after we had registered I met Fred Collier in this city, who took me in and insisted that I accompany him to the eleventh floor of the Boston store building, where Rhoda Royal, the famous trainer of horses and small elephants, was giving a threatening circus for the benefit of the patrons of the Boston store. Mr. Royal is filling a four weeks engagement, giving five shows a day, each show lasting about one hour. He gives two performances in the morning and three in the afternoon, and sure enough when Fred and I arrived it was a little after 2 o'clock and the show was going on in three rings, with the old-fashioned blue seats, and the ring was the same as they are in the big show during the summer. They had seats for about 1,200 people and as the show is free gratis, it is packed at every performance, which means that about 6,000 people witness the performances each day.

Fred Collier of this city is one of Rhoda Royal's lead trainers and has been with him for the past eight years and no man knows the business from A to Z better than young Collier.

Mr. Royal, who knows more about managing horses and elephants than any man in the country, is an old friend of mine, with whom I tramped back in the 50's with the Adam Forepaugh show.

They have dressing rooms there for the performers, standing for twelve performing horses and three tiny elephants, and a trained donkey who throws everyone who tries to ride him. Young Collier, in showing me the smallest elephant said to her, "This is a friend of mine, Mr. Watt of this is a friend of mine, who was in this business for many years. Are you glad to see him?" The elephant shook her head two or three times and grunted which Collier insisted meant that she was glad to see me. All of these elephants and horses were hoisted to the eleventh floor of the Boston store building by a heavy freight elevator, and after the spacious floor was cleared up the circus was in place for the day. This was certainly the first three-ring circus that ever was given on the eleventh floor of a building in the great city.

After leaving the circus we went back to the club rooms, where already thousands had registered, and while this was not a banquet, it was simply a "get together" meeting of the outdoor showmen, and the banquet was what a few years ago would have been called a "Dutch lunch." But as they have been out of style for the last few years, we will just call it a "homecoming and luncheon."

It was certainly interesting to hear the stories that the boys would tell of the past seasons and the trials and troubles they had at different times to get from town to town, many times being late, and help scarce; and a few times it was impossible to get their tents up at all and aerial acts would have to be given in the open.

One young man told a hard luck story that happened to him this summer. He said they had arrived in a town early and had everything in good shape, with thousands of people waiting to get in, but before time for the parade and just about one-half hour before it was time to start a heavy rain fell and it was impossible to give the parade and the afternoon performance had to be abandoned. In the evening they had a packed house, and a good town in prospect for the next day. When they arrived in the next town they found the show lot under more than two feet of water, and as it was the only available show ground in the town they had to pull out for the next town and desert this one entirely, although the sun was shining and it was a beautiful day.

After a few hours John D. Warren, president of the Showmen's League, called the assembly to order and delivered an address of welcome to the boys. He gave them a brief sketch of the good the league had done during the past year, the number of worthy ones it had helped out, the new members that had been taken in, and the prospective condition of the league. While Mr. Warren is a quiet, unassuming man, he speaks with an earnestness that draws his auditors closer to him. The next man on the program was Mr. Knight of Dallas, Tex., president of the state fair of that state, which has been famous for many years as one of the best. Mr. Knight has lived in Texas practically all his life, is master of a large fortune, besides being connected with the state fair; in fact has been one of the foremost workers for many years. He told what the circus meant to himself, as well as to thousands of others, many years ago, when they were boys, and how they watch for car No. 1 of the circus to come and fill the town, and when they would ask Mr. "Circus Man" when the show would arrive, and when he told them not for three or four weeks they could not see how it was possible for him to wait so long. Mr. Knight counted the days, and even the nights, until the arrival of the show. "In those days little did I think," he said, "that I would be a guest of the Showmen's League, and be telling thousands of you tonight how I have always enjoyed the circus from my boyhood up, and so far as circuses are concerned I feel as though I were still a boy."

The famous old elephant, "Teddies," is no more. "Teddies" died from eating too much frost-bitten sugar cane, and a word would have been better if he had taken the cane many years ago. He was one of the most dangerous animals in his time; had killed three or four people, and so the world's hatred was without him. "Teddies" was once owned by Ringling Bros., who sold him to Big Otto. He then passed into hands of the Selig Moving Picture company of Los Angeles, and was later owned by William P. Hall. He became very tame while Mr. Henry's wagon show.

Dr. Talcott Williams, head of the School of Journalism, Columbia university, says: "Attempts have been made to distribute little bits of literature that could be carried in the trenches, but it was found that men desired, not trivial things, but instead the big things that appealed to the patriotism of men, and above all they wanted parables of the Bible."

NEW YORK DRAFT MEN
MAKE DEBUT ON STAGE

[By International News.]
New York, Dec. 8.—Relatives of New York's drafted men will have an opportunity tomorrow to learn exactly what the boys are doing while in training at the great national army cantonment, Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I. Some 250 of the national army men will present on the Hippodrome stage a sketch, "A Day at Camp Upton," showing everything in detail from reveille to taps. Beyond practice, bomb throwing, trench digging and all that goes to make up soldier's life while in training for service in France will be faithfully portrayed. The proceeds will go to erect a large drill hall at Camp Upton which may be used on rainy days.

"ARMS and
THE GIRL""KATINKA" PROVES
A PRETTY PLAY"Katinka," One of the Most Delightful
Musical Plays of Recent Years,
Given at Myers Theatre
Last Night.

So popular has the music of "Katinka" become that it is heard everywhere, and in this way many persons have gotten the idea that Arthur Hammerstein has presented it before in Janesville. The audience last night was large and fashionable. Theatre-goers who love the beautiful and artistic cannot afford to miss seeing "Katinka." The music of "Katinka" is by Rudolph Friml, the book and lyrics by Otto Hauerbach, librettist and composer of "The Firefly" and "High Jinks," and also "You're in Love."

In addition to the charming, tuneful music, of which the audience never tires, the story is set in an atmosphere that lends color to the story. There is also a comedy vein that runs through the entire production that brings out clever, bright and snappy lines and introduces a number of unique characters.

The story of Katinka opens in Russia, where the heroine is being forced into an unwelcome marriage with an elderly statesman, Boris. While the wedding festivities are at their height Katinka's lover, Ivan, learns that Boris is already has one living wife, who is reported to be somewhere in Turkey. With the aid of an American friend, Ivan steals Katinka and sets out in search of the Russian's first wife. The scenes then change to a street in Old Stamboul, Turkey, and afterward to the Cafe Turkoise. The cast is an exceptionally good one. Howard Langford is seen as Tadous Hopper, the American, which part he handles with the greatest ease and puts real comedy into his efforts. Clara Palmer has the part of Mrs. Hopper, and others in the cast are A. Robins, Eve Lynn, Bernard Gorcey, Marquon Dwight, Nicholas Kovac, who with Eleanor Vincent dance a number of Russian dances; Selma Marion, S. Paul Vernon, John Roberts, Daniel J. Sullivan and Peggy Pates.

Plans for First Aid Class: There is still opportunity to enroll in the proposed Red Cross First Aid class. Those who wish to take up this work but who have not yet enrolled are asked to send in their names to Miss Mary Mount, 708 Court St., at the earliest possible date.

"Smashing the Bully"

Captain Donald McRae, son of a Brigadier General in the American army, has written a series of articles for The Daily Gazette about his experiences as an officer with the Canadian forces in France.

Captain McRae will tell about how it feels to go "over the top," and what it is like to hold a mine crater after a section of German trenches has been blown up. He will describe the German as a fighting man, and tell how our soldiers can best fight him.

No book on the war yet published is more interesting than this story of active service in one of the hottest centers on the western front. Captain McRae was stationed at Vimy Ridge, and for his gallantry in the fighting about that point, he was decorated with the Military Cross by King George of England at Buckingham Palace.

WOMANHOOD

THE GLORY OF THE NATION

The picture is a direct answer to the pacifist group and the anti-American foreigners in this country. It is the reply which the American woman makes to those who would betray or despoil her flag. It portrays the three great loves of a woman's life, the love of a maid for a man, the love of a mother for her child, the love of a woman for her country.

Useful Palm.
In the lowlands of the delta of the Orinoco river the natives build huts suspended between trunks of Manihot flexuosa, a palm. They also eat its fruits, its farinaceous pith, its saccharine juice, and use the fibers of its leaf stems for making ropes, hammocks, etc.

Tablets of Stone.
The library of the School of the Sons of the Empire, an ancient Chinese university which, it is said, was in existence a thousand years before Christian era, comprises 182 tablets of stone, whereon are carved all the "13 classics," the essence of Chinese culture.

How Women are Restored to Health

Spartanburg, S.C.—"For nine years I suffered from backache, weakness, and irregularities so I could hardly do my work. I tried many remedies but found no permanent relief. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt a great change for the better and am now well and strong so I have no trouble in doing my work. I hope every user of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will get as great relief as I did from its use."—Mrs. S. D. McAnez, 122 Dewey Ave., Spartanburg, S.C.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 165 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. Jos. O'Brien, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

CHAPTER XX.

Next morning the Orakzal Pathan sat and sunned himself in the cave mouth, emitting wordly wisdom undiluted with divinity. As King went toward him to see to whom he spoke he grinned and pointed with his thumb, and King looked down on some sick and wounded men who sat in a crowd together on the ramp, ten feet or so below the cave.

They seemed stout soldierly fellows. Men of another type were being kept at a distance by dint of argument and threats. Away in the distance was Muhammad Anim with his broad back turned to the cave, in altercation with a dozen other mullahs. For the time he was out of the reckoning.

"Some of these are wounded," the Pathan explained. "Some have sores. Some have the bellyache. Then again, some are sick of words, hot and cold by day and night. All have served in the army. All have medals. All are deserters, some for one reason, some for another and some for no reason at all. Bull-with-a-beard looks the other way. Speak thou to them about the pardon that is offered!"

So King went down among them, taking some of the tools of his supposed trade with him and trying to crowd down the triumph that would well up. The seed he had sown had multiplied by fifty in a night. He wanted to shout, as men once did before the walls of Jericho. Possibility of pardon and reinstatement, though only heard of at second hand, had brought unity into belag. And unity brought eagerness.

"Let us start tonight!" urged one man.

"Nay," the Pathan objected at once. "Many of you can hardly march. Rest ye here and let the hakim treat your bellyaches. Bull-with-a-beard bade me wait here for a letter that must go to Khinjan today. Good. I will take his letter. And in Khinjan I will spread news about pardons. It is likely there are fifty there who will dare follow me back, and then we shall march down the Khyber like a full company of the old days."

King got busy with his lance, but the mullah came back and called him off and drove the crowd away to a distance; then he drove King into the cave in front of him, his mouth working as if he were biting bits of vengeance off for future use.

"Write thy letter, thou! Write thy letter! Here is paper. There is a pen —take it! Sit! Yonder is ink—itutt—itutt!—write, now, write!"

King sat at a box and waited, as if to take dictation, but the mullah, tugging at his beard, grew furious.

"Write thine own letter! Invent thine own argument! Persuade her, or die in a new way! I will invent a new way for thee!"

So King began to write, in Urdu, for reasons of his own. He had spoken once or twice in Urdu to the mullah and had received no answer. It was a fair guess that Muhammad was ignorant of the scholars' language.

So King Began to Write in Urdu.

"Greeting," he wrote, "to the most beautiful and very wise Princess Yasmin, in her palace in the caves in Khinjan, from her servant Kurram Khan the hakim, in the camp of the mullah Muhammad Anim in the 'Hills'."

"The mullah Muhammad Anim demands surrender of Khinjan Caves and of all his ammunition. Further, he demands full control of you and of me and of all your men."

"He threatens as a preliminary to blockade Khinjan caves, unless the answer to this prove favorable, letting none enter, but calling his own men out to join him."

"The mullah Muhammad Anim demands surrender of Khinjan Caves and of all his ammunition. Further, he demands full control of you and of me and of all your men."

"It may be that vengeance against me would seem sweeter to you than return to your former allegiance. In that case, Princess, you only need betray me to the mullah, and be sure my death would leave nothing to be desired by the spectators. At present he does not suspect me."

"Be assured, however, that not to betray me to him is to leave me free to serve my government and well able to do so."

"I invite you to return to India with me, bearing news that the mullah Muhammad Anim and his men are bottled in Khinjan caves, and to plan with me to that end."

"If you will, then write an answer to Muhammad Anim, not in Urdu, but in a language he can understand; seem to surrender to him. But to me send a verbal message, either by the bearer of this or by some trusted messenger."

"India can profit yet by your service if you will. And in that case I pledge my word to direct the government's attention only to your good service in the matter. It is not yet too late to choose. It is not impertinent in me to urge you. Nor can I say how gladly I would subscribe myself your grateful and loyal servant."

The mullah pounced on the finished letter, pretended to read it, and watched him seal it up, smudging the hot wax with his own great guarded thumb. Then he shouted for the Orakzal Pathan, who came striding in, all grins and swagger.

"There—take it! Make speed!" he ordered, and with his rifle at the "ready" and the letter tucked inside his shirt, the Pathan favored King with a farewell grin and obeyed.

"Get out!" the mullah snarled then immediately. "See to the sick. Tell them I sent thee. Bid them be grateful!"

King went. He recognized the almost madness that constituted the mullah's driving power. It is contagious, that madness, until it destroys itself. It had made several thousand men follow him and believe in him, but it had once given Yasmin a chance to fool him and defeat him, and now it gave King his chance. He let the mullah think himself obeyed implicitly.

He became the busiest man in all the "Hills." While the mullah glowered over the camp from the cave mouth or fulminated from the Quran or fought with other mullahs with words for weapons and abuse for argument, he bandaged and lanced and poulticed and physicked until his head swam with weariness.

The sick swarmed so around him that he had to have a bodyguard to keep them at bay; so he chose twenty of the least sick from among those who had talked with the Pathan after sunrise.

And because each of those men had friends, and it is only human to wish one's friend in the same boat, especially when the sea, so to speak, is rough, the progress through the camp became a current of missionary zeal and the virtues of the Anglo-Indian raj were better spoken of than the "Hills" had heard for years.

Not that there was any effort made to convert the camp en masse. Far from it. But the likely few were pounced on and were told of a chance to enlist for a bounty in India. And what with winter now so far ahead, and what with experience of former fighting against the British army, the choosing was none so difficult. From the day when the lad first leapt soft down upon his face until the old man's beard turns white and his teeth shake out, the lullman would rather fight than out; but he prefers to fight on the winning side if he may, and he likes good treatment.

Before it was dark that night there were thirty men sworn to hold their tongues and to wait for the word to hurry down the Khyber for the purpose of enlisting in some British-Indian regiment. Some even began to urge the hakim not to wait for the Orakzal Pathan, but to start with what he had.

"Shall I leave my brother in the lurch?" the hakim asked them; and though they murmured, they thought better of him for it.

Well for him that he had plenty of Epsom salts in his kit, for in the "Hills" physic should taste evil and show very quick results to be believed in. He found a dozen diseases of which he did not so much as know the name, but half of the sufferers swore they were cured after the first dose. They would have dubbed him fakir and have folsted him to a pillar of holiness had he cared to let them.

Muhammad Anim slept most of the day, like a great animal that scorns to live by rule. But at evening he came to the cave mouth and fulminated such a sermon as set the whole camp to roaring. He showed his power then. The jihad he preached would have tempted dead men from their graves to come and share the plunder, and the curses he called down on cowards and laggards and unbelievers were enough to have frightened the dead away again.

In twenty minutes he had undone all King's missionary work. And then in ten more, feeling his power and their response, and being at heart a fool as all rogues are, he built it up again.

He began to make promises too definite. He wanted Khinjan caves. More he needed there. So he promised them they should all be free of Khinjan caves within a day or two, to come and go and live there at their pleasure. He promised them they should leave their wives and children and belongings safe in the caves while they themselves went down to plunder India. He overlooked the fact that Khinjan caves for centuries had been a secret to be spoken of in whispers, and that prospect of its violation came to them as a shock.

Half of them did not believe him. Such a thing was impossible, and if he were lying as to one point, why not as to all the others, too?

And the army veterans, who had been converted by King's talk of pardons, and almost reconverted by the sermon, shook their heads at the talk of taking Khinjan. Why waste time trying to do what never had been done, with her to reckon against, when a place in the sun was waiting for them down in India, to say nothing of the hope of pardons and clean living for a while? They shook their heads and combed their beards and eyed one another sideways in a way the "Hills" understand.

That night, while the mullah glowered over the camp like a great old owl, with leaping firelight reflected in his eyes, the thousands under the skin tents argued, so that the night was all noise. But King slept.

All of another day and part of another night he toiled among the sick, wondering when a message would come back. It was nearly midnight when he bandaged his last patient and came out into the starlight to bend his back straight and yawn and pick his way reeling with weariness back to the mullah's cave. He had given his bag of medicines and implements to a man to carry ahead of him and had gone perhaps ten paces into the dark when a strong hand gripped him by the wrist.

"Hush!" said a Voice That Seemed Familiar.

"Hush!" said a voice that seemed familiar. He turned swiftly and looked straight into the eyes of the Rangar Rewa Gunga!

"How did you get here?" he asked in English.

"Any fool could learn the password into this camp! Come over here, sahib. I bring word from her."

Dinner Stories

A gentleman who lived in Central Africa for many years possesses an amusing drawing of a "race meeting" out there. A leopard is chasing and rapidly overhauling, a fat old white man, and two gayly appareled natives are lookers-on.

"Can you spot the winner?" murmurs one dandy to the other.

"The winner," is the solemn reply, "is spotted already!"

Willie Collier tells a story concerning a young actress friend of his who is fast coming to the front—a story which has a moral attached for ambitious stage aspirants.

It appears that the young lady in question, becoming stage-struck, devoted almost a whole year to pulling wires and using all possible influence in order to gain an interview with a certain theatrical manager.

At last her hopes were realized; she got her appointment, and she was finally ushered into the manager's private office. He received her most cordially and offered her a chair.

"Thank you," she said gratefully, "I think I will sit down. I've been just ten months getting here and I'm a bit tired."

Of the Vigilantes

(Written for "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund")

EDITOR'S NOTE—This newspaper will receive and turn over to "Our Boys in France Tobacco Fund," 25 West Forty-fourth Street, New York City, all contributions to pay for tobacco for the soldiers. Each dollar pays for four packages, with a total retail value of at least $1.80. In each package is placed a postcard bearing the name and address of the contributor. The soldier, receiving the package agrees to send a message on the card to his unknown friend back home. You get your thanks from an American soldier in the trenches.

I READ the appeal to the women of Great Britain taken from the Win-the-War Cookery Book and printed with the Vigilante stuff. I have read a lot about making the women economize in the kitchens and it is good stuff. It is needed in many kitchens all over the land, but listen, you fellows, how hard have you listened for the appeal to you? Well, cock your ear now and hearken, for here it comes.

Down in the deep mud of the Flanders trenches and the cold rains of autumn and winter, soon will be standing thousands of our boys. They will suffer from trench feet and colds and pneumonia and cramps and every ill that is induced by wet and inclement weather. When a soldier boy has stood in icy water till his feet are numb and the horrible numbness is creeping upward to his vitals, when the muscles on his thighs knot with cramp and his throat is beginning to gather a raw soreness and the night seems endless, you can do something to help him wait with patience.

What? Why you can split fifty-fifty with him. Not in standing grimly ready to fight, not in watching the hell fires of battle. You can not grip a rifle with a sharp bayonet attached to its muzzle and race with him to the other trenches and rip up a Boche who screams horribly as you do it. Oh no, not that at all. You will be in your office or your bed while he is doing that, which makes your part all the smaller. What you can do, and you should do it right now, is to make an estimate in generous figures of the money you spend for tobacco every month. Let the estimate take in all your own smokes and the box of cigars you gave your brother-in-law last Christmas and those you hand out to business associates and others with whom you wish to curry favor.

Then, when you have made the estimate, and are sure you have not fudged the thickness of your thumb-nail, then split that amount in half and say to your soul, "Soul, rest content with the half portion which is your portion hereafter. The other half goes to the boys in the trenches every month as long as the war lasts. God bless them. Because they are there, I may escape getting into a trench on this side, and I don't begrudge the sacrifice."

Then smoke one cigar where you smoke two now and give to your friend one cigar where you formerly gave two and tell him just why you do it, that he may go and do likewise. And by the doing, you will attain great merit, which you will feel as a warm spot in the left breast, and your health will improve, for, lo, it is well known to your wife that you smoke too much now. Furthermore, the frosty nose of some poor devil in a trench will grow warm over the smoke you denied yourself and his prayers will go up for you every time he bites the tip off a new one. And just to set the ball rolling and show that your heart is in it, pass the idea along to every good fellow whom you see blowing smokes as a whale blows mist. And we can call ourselves The Art an' Art Society.

He that gives quickly gives double.

All the people of Janesville and vicinity are earnestly urged to do Christmas gift-buying early---the sooner the better. We must all pull together in this respect.

As everyone knows abnormal conditions prevail---with nearly two million men under arms there is a scarcity of labor. Manufacturers, jobbers, retailers, transportation lines are bending under the gigantic burden of meeting both the military and civilian needs. Surely we must sacrifice personal convenience in the face of the pressing necessities of our country.

It may mean personal sacrifice to shop early, to shop mornings, to carry parcels, to avoid exchanging merchandise---but how little of sacrifice this really entails when compared with the supreme sacrifice nearly two millions of our brave sons are prepared to make. You want to do your share. Everybody does. Think what stupendous results can be obtained if you, your family, your friends---the one hundred millions of us Americans seriously and unitedly determine to conserve food, labor, time, materials, capital.

SHOP EARLY SHOP MORNINGS

CARRY PARCELS AVOID EXCHANGES

Four timely suggestions to Christmas shoppers

Shop early

Get your gift list ready now. Make your selections during the first two weeks in December---earlier if possible.

Thousands of dollars' worth of beautiful Christmas gift merchandise has just been unpacked and placed on display. The assortments are at their best; the salespeople more than anxious to give you interested, undivided attention.

Store help is scarce because of the demands of war for men. For the same reason merchandise cannot be ordered and obtained on short notice from manufacturers. A lot of Christmas goods now on display cannot be duplicated by any means after the present stocks are sold out. Aside from the moral obligation to shop early it's materially to your advantage to do so.

Shop mornings

The morning hours are the golden hours for leisurely shopping. You'll accomplish twice as much in selecting gift articles in half the time.

It is the big afternoon crowds that make necessary the employment of extra help---men and women who can hardly be spared from work that concerns the nation vitally.

With your co-operation it will be very easy indeed to render first-class service to everyone---economically and efficiently, with great savings resulting to customer, merchant and nation.

Plan to do your shopping just a few hours earlier---before noon if at all possible---and enjoy that feeling of satisfaction that comes of having made a real sacrifice in a noble cause.

Carry parcels

Do not ask a fighting man to carry your parcels. The United States Government makes this earnest request of retail merchants and the public at large:

"Avoid waste in labor, capital, material and equipment and thereby release when needed men and capital for the defense of this nation."

In this every citizen can do his bit. Nearly two million young men---fighting men---are ready to lay down their lives if need be for their country. They're the bulwark between you and the foreign hosts that are bent on taking away your liberty, if chance but offers.

Carry parcels when possible---Is it much to do so little in order to conserve men and capital and equipment for the line of defense? Surely this is your opportunity.

Avoid exchanges

Shop early and many of the underlying causes for exchanging goods disappear automatically.

Avoid making ill-advised purchases only to return the goods after soberer reflection.

Merchandise taken out of the store only to be returned has lost some of its original value. Very often a sale for it has been lost in the interim.

The depreciation in the value, the cost of delivery to your home and back to the store, the time consumed by clerks in making the exchange and getting goods back into stock---all makes for waste.

This is set at naught the request of the United States Government to "avoid waste in labor, capital, material and equipment."

Make careful selection a habit, buy only that which you are going to keep. Avoid C. O. D.'s.

BOXING APPEARS TO BE ON THE DECLINE

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
New York, Dec. 8.—The boxing game appears to be as dead as a pickled herring. It is to be judged by efforts being made to match stars, and the results attending.

It used to be that a boxer could come to New York, make himself sold with a scrap or so and then settle down to fight a lot and count the shekels.

That day has passed, of course. There are a few boxing clubs in New York City who have attempted to run under the plan of bouts for members, but that, again, is a thing of the past. In the old days, when there was a club on every corner, running under protection of the state, and bidding for the services of boxers.

Since which time, legalized boxing now do not have the facilities for boxing that New York presented. Usually there is one big club, or perhaps two, and the matches are few and far between. No decision since the present in New York rings made the picking set for champions and they were always ready to do a thing when champions will have to risk their titles in order to pull down any great amount of cash for their efforts.

Before the New York fight law came into being the west was the ready money spot for all boxers, and even after the Crawley law was spread on the books at Albany there was a considerable boom during the region of the Mississippi. Milwaukee, for instance, saw several famous lightweights go. Minneapolis and St. Paul got a chance to see some fine boxing when Mike Gibbons had what some folks believed to be serious competition among the middleweights. Willie Ritchie made Charlie White a lightweight champion one night in Milwaukee. The only thing that prevented White's stardom in that city was his stupidity in not finishing the Californian after he had him out on his feet. Mike Gibbons disposed of Young Abraham for all time in one of the first rounds.

The west may be coming back, but it seems to be taking its time. The offers to boxers are few and far between. Some encouragement is badly needed if the boxers are to keep themselves from going to work.

GOOD GAME EXPECTED
AT Y. M. C. A. TONIGHT

Local Five Will Open Season With Rockford Team—Game Will Start at Eight O'clock.

Final practice for the Y. M. C. A. basketball team in preparation for the game with the Rockford team, the local club of the Rockford tonight, was held on Friday evening. The team was sent through a basket shooting drill, followed by a half hour of scrimmaging.

The local five is confident of winning, although they realize that Rockford will have the advantage of having played previous to this time. The Rockford team is the strongest in that city, and have made a good record in the past five or six years. The game will start at eight o'clock and a large crowd is expected to be on the schedule for the Lakota Cardinals at the Auditorium. The lineup for Janesville will be: Korte, Cushing and Cassidy, forwards; Wade and Hendricks, centers; Hazen, Kober and McCaffrey, guards.

JAPANESE PROVE TO BE GOOD DISTANCE RUNNERS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Dec. 8.—That the Japanese long distance runner will be a formidable opponent in the future is demonstrated by the details of the latest marathon race held in the land of the rising sun. The run was between Yokohama and a suburban park over a twenty-five mile course and the winner covered the whole distance in two hours, thirty minutes and twelve seconds. Of the thirty starters all but six finished the race and the majority reached the mark in good condition.

While this is not the best time made in a marathon race in Japan it is a record for that distance. During 1912 a Japanese runner ran the full marathon distance of 26 miles 385 yards in 2 h. 31 m. 8 s. in a trial race held in connection with early preparation for the Olympic games, scheduled at that time to be staged at Tokyo in 1918. The time is better than that made by any marathon winner of a marathon race held at Olympic games since the initial revival of this classic track and field meet at Athens in 1896.

Beautiful Painting Portraits Memories From Soldier's Diary

"Memories from my Diary" is a beautiful painting which shows an elderly man of a future date reading from a compact and convenient sized book in which as a young soldier he had recorded experiences in the great war. In the background of the picture passing shadows are seen marching troops suggesting the scenes pictured in the man's mind. The picture forcefully portrays the value of keeping a diary. Many a soul-thrilling scene would be forgotten if it were not recorded while fresh in memory.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Locke Pierce motored to Janesville yesterday.

Ray Clifford and Ben Gray have returned from the northern part of the state where they have been for the past few weeks.

The St. John's Guild elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Miss Elvora Andrews; vice-president, Mrs. Harry Hanson; secretary, Miss Lilla Luddington; treasurer, Mrs. C. E. Lee.

The O. E. S. will hold a picnic supper at their next regular meeting on Monday evening. Supper will be served at 6:30. Members are urged to be present as it is election of officers.

Baptist Church. William P. Pearce, minister. The usual services on the Lord's day. Morning worship at 10:30. Subject of sermon: "Satan's Patent Sifter and the Need of Brotherly Support." UNITED STATES HAS TAKEN LEADERSHIP IN WORLD AFFAIRS

By Ellis H. Usher.

Milwaukee, Dec. 8.—The week has been an important one as marking a distinctly new step forward by the United States in the leadership of the affairs of the world. President Wilson has more definitely stated the reasons and purposes that have controlled and must control this country in the present momentous situation of world affairs. It is evident that he has been and is correct in moving slowly, for an interesting development of the discussion here, and even in Washington, is the still dawning realization of many Americans that this is no longer an isolated country. They have never before grasped the truth that we "expanded" beyond all previous limits and into the widest sphere of world's concerns nineteen years ago, when we went to war with Spain. Since that day we have acquired possessions from St. Thomas to Laponia. The president is leading his citizens splendidly, and in time the slowest of them will realize that he, and we, are leading the whole world in the present crisis. This is true partly because we have the will and courage, because we have the ability, but also, and most vital, because the "splendid isolation" of our past has made us a supreme opportunity.

The broad general conditions above suggested have had a new and important effect in this state. They have given additional force and patriotic enthusiasm to a call issued on Wednesday for a great loyalty mass meeting at Madison early next month, under the auspices of the Wisconsin Loyalty League. It is, understood, expected that this meeting will be addressed by the Hon. Elihu Root and Senator John Sharp Williams, and that in every detail it is to be planned and executed as a demonstration that shall be memorable of the loyalty of Wisconsin people and of their sentiment to the widespread aspiration of the patriotic zeal of Wisconsin. The invitation is wide open. Everybody is invited. Nobody needs wait to be asked. Men who are patriotic, who are their own masters, and who fear nothing but cowardice and the suppression of Wisconsin's patriotic emotion, will come. Nobody needs wait to be asked. Men who are patriotic, who are their own masters, and who fear nothing but cowardice and the suppression of Wisconsin's patriotic emotion, will come. Nobody needs wait to be asked. Men who are patriotic, who are their own masters, and who fear nothing but cowardice and the suppression of Wisconsin's patriotic emotion, will come.

This meeting should be an outpouring of patriotic citizens who have no leading strings, political or otherwise. Madison should swarm with them. Any man who backs up the government without its hands or heart should be welcomed. The men who have been looking askance at the Loyalty League should not be afraid of its invitation. It is frank, open and broad enough to suit anybody whose first thought is patriotic service. I see no reason why even those shy gentlemen, with whom the hedgerows are thought to be swarming, and who are suspected of one another on designs on an apathy, should not put in an appearance. If loyalty is a governing principle with them, each may exhibit his particular wares without prejudice. The ones who are satisfied first, and senatorial candidates afterwards, will probably be first on the field. But I see no reason why any of them should keep away, unless, like La Follette, at the making of the president's message, they prefer to show dissent to a loyal demonstration by keeping their seats. That is likely to be even more conspicuous than their presence. The same rule will apply to our public men. There should be no urgency upon the hesitating or the unwilling. The people who have courage are the sort who will go to such a meeting. I do not know what Mr. La Follette's attitude is, but the Americans, regardless of birth, race or condition, who love this country and hate treason, are sure to turn out.

In conjunction with the squirming that is going on at the militant leadership of the University of Wisconsin, which was recently rubbed a little raw by Carl Vrooman, U. S. assistant secretary of education, a significant announcement this week in Mr. Berger's Milwaukee Leader. It is to the effect that Prof. John R. Commons will give "a new course in Sociology" beginning with the next semester. The Leader's news item, which bears a Madison date, says:

"This will be the first time that Socialism will be taught at the University of Wisconsin. The course was formerly given as a part of a year's study in labor problems, but owing to the growth of Socialism it will be taken up as a distinct course. A condensed version of Karl Marx's Capital will probably be used as a text book. The class will meet three hours a week for lectures and discussion and students will be required to do a considerable amount of reading for the course."

A Socialism that interests the Leader is of a pronounced pro-German type. Some students will be urged to the evidently special attention which this "new course" proposes. Perhaps a "new course" in Americanism and "straight goods" patriotism might do more to win Wisconsin just now. It is certainly worth considering. Mr. Vrooman's remarks struck a very approving ear in Wisconsin.

The signs of the times point plainly to a reaction all over the country against the aggressive German propaganda of the past twenty years. It is significant that the Milwaukee school board has this week taken a vote to eliminate German and all other foreign languages from the public schools. It was delayed as long as it could be by Leo Stern, Mrs. Berger and other school officials, but it is on the toboggan now and will gather speed on the down grade. It is one of the fatalities of all wrong-headedness, that it is never wise enough to avoid utter and complete defeat. The German propagandists will not quit until here, as in England, Canada and France, there is nothing left that smacks of German language, names, music or literature that is not in utter public contempt. It is no use to advise there is an element in this country that is using German to ruin everything that has German traditions. That element promises to succeed because so few of German blood openly point out that the propagandists are really the most dangerous enemies of all things German in America. They are determined to be satisfied with no half-way ruin. Only complete eradication of German will satisfy them. They will ultimately be amazed at the completeness of their accomplishment, and then they will lay it all to "nativism" and race prejudice.

In his first message to the legislature, in 1915, Gov. Philipp in the second paragraph said:

"The most important problem that confronts us at this time is to introduce economies in the management of our state affairs that will produce substantial reductions in state expenditures and make a reduction in state taxes possible. The people demand retrenchment."

For months (this year, up to July, the reiteration came from Madison that taxes would not be higher. Now the state treasurer tells the governor that the special session to be held soon must raise money to meet a deficit in the treasury of over half a million dollars. Taxes, state and national, are higher and growing all the time. Unless expenses are reduced they will increase and deficits will grow. The newspapers tell us that Gov. Philipp now proposes to meet the first deficit in the treasury by the issue of bonds. The constitution says:

"Sec. 6 For the purpose of defraying extraordinary expenditures, the state may contract public debts, but such debts shall never in the aggregate exceed $100,000."

During the civil war, under pressure of extraordinary expenses, the state trust funds were robbed of $2,000,000. The state has not extinguished the debt then illegally contracted and is still paying the university interest on the greater part of it. How does the governor expect to evade the constitution? Is Wisconsin again to resort to the pillage of trust funds with more than a million dollars remaining unpaid of the debt of honor now over half a century old? If so, what does it profit to have "a business man for governor?"

FARM LABOR TO BE PLENTIFUL IN 1918

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—There will be no shortage of farm labor next year, despite the drafting of thousands of the farm hands into military service, is the prediction here of William H. Young, of Urbana, Ill. Mr. Young is the Federal farm labor representative of the Farm Congress Bureau at Washington, D. C., Indiana, Ohio and Missouri. He is on a tour of investigation of the four states, probing the needs of the agriculturists.

The object of the bureau, primarily, Mr. Young says, is to provide farm labor for the cultivation and harvesting of next year's crops. They are working in co-operation with every labor organization in the country. In this connection, he declares, splendid co-ordination prevails. Farmers and co-ordinators are working hard to help next year, he said, should appeal to the bureau, instead of the State labor and employment agencies. It is hoped before the season begins next year enough men will have been registered to provide the demand. The Congress will work in conjunction with every county agent in the United States, whose party duty is to secure farm labor in their respective communities.

It is a patriotic movement, designated to help the Government in its present emergency. The farmer and the laborer alike will be protected in the matter of prices paid for help," Mr. Young says. "While we have no direct power to establish a fixed wage scale, we hope to produce a feeling of harmony between both the employer and the employee in this respect. If possible, we do not propose to permit the workers being underpaid, nor allow the workers charging excessive rates for help."

ARCHBISHOP GIVEN MEDAL BY SOLDIERS

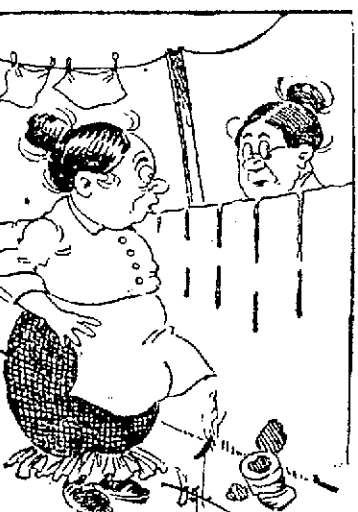

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Dec. 8.—The 152nd line regiment, itself the first to receive the "fourragere" both in the colors of the War Cross and of the Military Medal, has just conferred a Military Medal "fourragere" upon Cardinal Lucien, Archbishop of Reims. In recognition of his bravery in never quitting his post in the much bombed city. In order to make the Cardinal-Archbishop eligible for this distinction the regiment first appointed him honorary chaplain to the regiment and later when the prelate was dining with the regiment's mess the colonel presented the insignia, saying: "Soldiers on campaign have nothing to offer. We should like, however, to give you a souvenir of your visit to the 'Fifteenth' so often what we value most, the 'fourragere' of the regiment." The "fourragere" which the cardinal will henceforth wear on ceremonial occasions is a limited cord worn round the shoulder like the aiguillettes worn by American naval officers in full dress. The first fourragere was made of strands of the same color as the war cross and was awarded to all men of any unit who had been cited twice in the army orders. When some units had won five citations a new fourragere was granted made in the colors of the military medal. But even this was found not to be sufficient, and when the famous Foreign Legion had won six citations, a third fourragere, women in red, the color of the Legion of Honor, was instituted for units that exceeded five citations.

JAPAN GOVERNMENT PASSES ORDINANCE FOR NEW COINS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Tokyo, Dec. 8.—The issue of 30,000,000 yen of 50, 20 and 10 sen bank notes has been approved by imperial ordinance. This emergency measure, as explained by the ministry of finance, is due to the unusual development of business since the outbreak of the war and the inability of the government mint to keep pace with the demand for smaller silver coins. The term of the issue is fixed at one year from the conclusion of peace. Concurrently with the issue the government will manufacture silver coins equal in amount to the notes issued. This amount is to be held at the Bank of Japan to provide for the exchange and the gradual withdrawal of the paper notes.

Business
Offers You

RICHER OPPORTUNITIES Than Ever

Never before has there been such a tremendous demand for help in business. Never before have salaries been so high. Never before have opportunities been so rich and so plentiful.

Within the past few months, thousands and thousands of young men and young women, just out of school or holding minor-paying jobs have stepped into responsible executive positions offering wonderful opportunities for advancement and paying $75.00, $90.00, $125.00, $150.00 a month—and sometimes more—right from the start.

Thousands more who occupied these positions paying from $75.00 to $150.00 a month have stepped into the $2,000.00, $3,000.00, $4,000.00 and $5,000.00 a year class.

Right Here is Your Opportunity

Here are a few of the reasons—reasons which also constitute your opportunity—probably the greatest opportunity which has ever come into the lives of the young people of this or any age. One, the greatest era of prosperity; two, the greatest demand for help; three, the greatest shortage of help America has ever known.

$12,000,000,000 In War Orders

Congress has recently voted $7,000,000,000—seven thousand million dollars—to equip and provision our army and those of our allies.

There has just been issued by the Treasury Department more than $5,000,000,000—five thousand million dollars—worth of Liberty Bonds for the same purpose.

Factories are working night and day—and are months behind. War has taken millions of men and women, many of whom, in times of peace serve in the ranks of business.

Because of these enormous expenditures—$130.00 for every man, woman and child—and because of the demands of war, we have this unparalleled era of prosperity, this great demand for help, this great shortage of help, and more and richer opportunities paying premium salaries than America has ever known.

Premium Salaries In Business

Business is rushed as it has never been rushed before. Even with an abundance of help there would be prosperity and opportunity for all. But the ranks of business have been thinned. Thousands of brave men and women have given up excellent positions to serve at the front. Not only must their places be filled but our industries must be made "more prolific and more efficient." Therefore, this prosperity and these opportunities are for those who take their places. Will you serve in the ranks of business where the salaries are high and the opportunities great?

But These Rich Opportunities Are For the Trained

Trained men and women left these positions. Trained men and women must take their places. If you are to do your bit—if you are to help make our industries "more prolific and more efficient"—if you are to avoid the minor-paying jobs,—if you are to secure one of these choice executive positions paying premium salaries and offering rich opportunities—you must be a producer right from the start.

To be a $75.00, $100.00, or a $5,000.00 helper you must be worth it. You can't receive a $100.00 salary and be a $10.00 helper. Your efficiency must be developed.

No warring nation, having any regard for human life, would send its soldiers to the first line trenches without a thorough training in modern warfare. And no business man, having any regard for his business, would think of sending you "over the top" to opportunity and responsibility unless you have had a thorough course in modern business. So, if you would enter the first line of trenches of business where the bullets of opportunity are the thickest—You must be thoroughly, intensively and efficiently trained.

How many young people of ability are today drawing poor salaries because of a lack of training—hoping that experience gained at their employer's expense will overcome lack of training. It can't be done. Training is necessary. Don't delay. Positions are plentiful today but six months from now the demand will be still greater. Today is the day of preparation.
